

About the Author

Nigel Cooper is a British author of contemporary fiction and crime. He found his 'voice' as the editor of his own magazine, which he founded in 2004 and ran for seven years before selling it in 2011 in order to focus on writing fiction. Prior to this he studied screenwriting in London and ran a successful video production company. He also has a wealth of experience as a freelance journalist, writing articles, reviews and stories for numerous magazines and newspapers. Nigel also has a degree in classical piano performance and loves nothing more than to sit and play Chopin Nocturnes and Beethoven Sonatas when he isn't writing. Nigel lives and writes in Cambridgeshire, England.

'Nick Spalding fans will love it!'

DIGITAL ROMANCE DISORDER

by
Nigel Cooper

A rollercoaster ride in the crazy world of Internet dating

Nick Ryder has been single for ten years since divorcing his wife, who was twice unfaithful to him. Working from home Nick has found it impossible to meet a woman. So, after his best friends persuade him to join an Internet dating website, he embarks on a series of dates with hilarious, outrageous, a little scary, and just plain weird consequences.

After a string of unsuccessful – and unusual – dates, Nick starts to lose heart and after swimming in the murky waters of internet dating for months on end he's beginning to wonder how many more times he's going to have to go through this before he finally meets the woman of his dreams.

Sometimes, no matter how hard you try to find love, at the end of the day it will just come up from behind and smack you on the back of the head when you least expect it.

'This story will chime with anybody who's done their time in the trenches of Internet dating warfare.'

Digital Romance Disorder by Nigel Cooper

Word count: 95,024

Paperback price: £8.99

Kindle price: £3.48

ISBN (paperback): 9780957330788

ASIN (kindle): B071GLLFTF

Contact details:

Email: nigel@nigelcooperauthor.co.uk

Website: www.nigelcooperauthor.co.uk